ARE YOU MAN ENOUGH TO TRY IT NOW?

This Searching Question Is Asked by Rev. Cole at Christian Church

GIVE BIBLE FAIR TEST

The Book of Books Lauded as Only Guide to Truth

By O. L. KILBORN

Not a large, but a very attentive audience greeted Rev. C. A. Cole last night, Thanksgiving evening, at Central Christian church. After a song service by the congregation and choir, and a pathetic reading, a piano monologue entitled "Echoes From the Old Hymns," by Mrs. Nern, the pastor announced his sermon topic as "The Bible; Are You Man Enough to Try It?" After reading his text, II Tim. 3:16, in which Paul, writing from prison, in almost the last moments of his life, exhorts his "son in the gospel" to make use of the word freely, saying that "all scripture is inspired of God and is profitable for reproof, teaching and doctrine," the speaker said that great men of all ages acknowledged the Bible as a guide to righteous living. Professed unbelievers criticise and scoff at it, but they are not men enough to try it. Its purity and truth are everywhere acknowledged and no one disputes that its teachings, if faithfully practiced, would end all wars and all crime, build up every nation and bring peace and happiness to all. Yet so very very many are not men enough to try it.

The children are all aquiver for tonight's song program, which they are to give and which Mr. Conner has made so real to them. One secret of this good man's popularity with the children as well as older folk, is his readiness to help in every difficulty. He is an old-time printer and in the days of the old Washington hand press and hand typesetting, he could do setting and making up of the forms, getting out job work, feeding the press and so on. Not long ago he and his good wife were helping in a revival in a small town near Merced, where a semi-weekly paper was published. The editor had heard of Mr. Conner's ability as an all-around printer and when he was suddenly called away to attend court one Thursday, he sent for the singer, stated his predicament and asked if he would finish getting out the issue. Mr. Conner said, "Certainly." So, donning a big apron, he fell to setting the remaining ads, then made up the forms and put them on the press. When the proprietor returned the next day his papers all lay before him, neatly folded and ready for mailing. And Mr. Conner is even more ready to help a man to forsake his sins and follow the Master as to assist him in material ways. Come out and hear him, his good wife (who by the way, is one of the finest pianists on this coast) and Mrs. Helen Conner Nern. And Rev. Cole's sermons will do you good, too. There are only three more services during this revival —tonight, Sunday morning and Sunday evening. You should miss none of them.

Tonight, the famous bottle sermon, which has excited the curiosity of all attending the meetings the past week, will be preached. Rev. Cole has one bottle to exhibit that is more than 100 years old.

MYSTERIOUS SHOT AT PATROLMAN ON BRAND

Policeman Fleming Fired at Out of Shadow at Maple and Brand

A revolver shot rang out, a bullet whizzed thpough the air, an alarm was turned in to police headquarters, an investigation was made, the offender escaped, and the world rolled quietly on.

The excitement centered around Officer Fleming; the scene was laid at Maple and Brand, and the time was 8:30 o'clock Thursday night. Fleming was proceeding along Brand, according to orders. Some bold, bad bandit, "snuck" sneakingly around the building hidden by the shadow thereof. As the "copper" neared the chosen spot, the pistol was raised and the trigger was pulled.

The bullet went wide of its mark and the man could not be located.

New Swapper Would Trade Big for Little Automobile Right Now

Most people would go around with their noses up in the air if they had a perfectly good Hudson Super-Six, but here's a fellow who would rather ride in a small car. No big machine for him—he doesn't believe in putting on the "dog." Although he lives in a swell neighborhood he doesn't care to travel around in a fashionable car. His name is H. V. Findlay, and he lives at 1732 Opeeche Way, Verdugo Woodlands. He has a lot of other things to swap, too, including 40 acres in Michigan, 10 sacks of fertilizer, a 16-quart copper kettle. He wants equity in house, Victrola, carpenter work, building material, and the like.

The Circle Real Estate company, 120 North Brand, comes back with another swap. This time they have a dandy four-room house, lot 50 by 150, lawn, Montrose, $2,500. What cha got?

LEADERS' CLASS OF SERVICE TO MEET TONIGHT

To Be Held in Gymnasium Building of the Main High School Building

The meeting place of the class for leaders of social recreation that is being conducted by Community Service has been changed to the gymnasium in the basement of the main building of the High School. The class meets tonight at 7:30.

Although there will be but three more lessons with the instructor from National Community Service, there is still time for new members, to register if they desire to learn new games and other activities for social programs. There is no charge for the course, and a number of men and women are already taking advantage of this opportunity to have a good time themselves and learn how to help other groups to do so.

Moyse, retiring commander of the Glendale Commandery, which elects officers at its next meeting, is complimenting the members of his official staff with a dinner and evening tonight at the University Club where covers will be laid for Roy V. Hogue, Generalissimo; W. W. Worley, Senior Warden; J. I. Wernette, Junior Warden; O. E. Von Oven, Prelate; Frank Vesper, Treasurer; Charles C. Rittenhouse, Recorder; Sidney F. Gilhuly, Standard Bearer; J. Hartley Taylor, Sword Bearer; Omar Burt Richardson, Warder; Charles Ravenscroft, Sentinel; Will M. McMillan, 1st guard; Thomas Wood, 2d guard; Will E. WELFARE COUNCIL SECURES SUPPORT OF SCHOOLS

Preceding the Thanksgiving holiday, a call for help was sent by the welfare council, to Mrs. E. L. Young, P.-T. A. Federation chairman of Philanthropy. She forwarded the call to the High school and Intermediate schools, asking for money contributions for the Thanksgiving basket given to the less fortunate of this city.

The response as usual was ready and the amounts were as follows: High school, $94.00; Glendale avenue Intermediate, $9.00; Wilson Avenue Intermediate, $20.00.

The welfare council wishes to thank the pupils of these schools for their generous offering without which 30 families would have had a very meager Thanksgiving dinner.

They also wish to thank the Casa Verdugo Methodist church and St. Mark's Episcopal Church for their kind donations.

Carols Designated by Local Churches

The churches of Glendale have been asked by the Christmas carol committee of Glendale Community Service to include in their Sunday musical programs, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," and "Joy to the World," which were to be used to connection with the Community Christmas celebration

Little Jackie Coogan will APPEAR IN PERSON before the camera and do stunts and sell lemonade and peanuts and ice cream cones, according to his managers.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Nov. 30, 1922.

Editor Glendale Press: Having been a citizen and property owner in Glendale for more than eight years, I am vitally interested in the welfare of our beautiful and rapidly growing little city, and have just naturally become a "booster."

Many of the finest people on earth live in Glendale, and it has been demonstrated times without number that the large majority of our people stand right on all moral issues when a question is up for decision; and I for one desire that we shall not surrender our rights as an independent municipality, to continue to settle all such questions for ourselves, and not allow ourselves to become an infinitesimal part of a large ctiy and no longer be able to say "our soul is our own."

I would like to mention a few things that have come to my knowledge and that pertain to the question of "annexation to Los Angeles." By being the architect of the new Community Church at Owensmouth, which is about to be erected to replace one that burned nearly a year ago, I have become acquainted with many of the most prominent citizens of that place; and knowing that they had been "annexed" I was anxious to learn how well satisfied they were with their bargain. In answer to my questions I received the following information:

That before annexation the representatives of Los Angeles made numerous alluring promises, not one of which was kept after the annexation took place. That they have had to fight for every consideration they have received and for every public service they have secured. That their taxes are far in excess of what they were before annexation. While they were an independent community they had many beautiful electroliers with five lights on each, lining their principal streets and extending for miles along their highways; but these were immediately shut off when they annexed to Los Angeles, though after a strong protest on their part the city consented to let them have the top lamp lighted on a few of them during certain hours.

That the beautiful shrubs, trees and flowers along thier principal thoroughfare have been almost entirely neglected and are in a dying condition. That while they were provided the aqueduct water for irrigation, they were required to vote a large bond issue to pay for furnishing same and another large amount to assume a portion of the bonded indebtedness of Los Angeles.

There were many other "grievances" told to us, but one of the most pertinent was their advice to Glendale to "keep out of Los Angeles." They are going to pay a premium of nearly $1000 in added cost of their church building for being forced to conform to the building code of Los Angeles, same as though they were building it in the midst of the city.

This is an item that would run up into the thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands, in Glendale, and would affect every building erected here, if we were to be taken into Los Angeles. "Taken in" I think is the correct term to use. Let's "let well enough alone" and stay out.

ARTHUR G. LINDLEY,
(Need I say) "Anti-Annexationist."

L. A. ANNEXATION WIPES OUT SAN PEDRO

Wilmingto Also Loses Identity on Shipping Lists

SAN PEDRO, Dec. 1.—"Walter S. Wheaton, a member of the firm known as the Los Angeles General Steamship Agents, Inc., has stirred up a hornet's nest," says the San Pedro News. "Wheaton, in a letter to a San Francisco firm, declares that San Pedro and Wilmington no longer exist, having been banished from the map at a recent conference held in New York.

"C. J. Colden, president of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, today declared that the two cities still exist, notwithstanding the 'conference' of the unofficial map revisers. And Colden will probably call for a 'show down.'

"Certain Los Angeles interests for years have been attempting to destroy the geographical and historical identity of San Pedro and Wilmington. They want the port to be known as 'Los Angeles Harbor,' and if they had their way in the matter the Pacific Electric would put 'Los Angeles Harbor' on San Pedro trains and all mail would be addressed to 'Los Angeles Harbor.'

"Mr. Wheaton took the liberty to inform the San Francisco firm the two cities are non-existent 'by reason of laws properly enacted and recorded.'

"Local business men and steamship operators confess they never heard of the so-called conference, and feel that they were slighted in not being invited when the map was cut up, and the two cities eliminated. President Colden will probably ask for the names of the conferees who took such drastic action. All government maps, it is pointed out, continue to carry San Pedro and Wilmington as separate and distinct communities.

"In the meantime the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations will 'go to bat.'

"It ought to be interesting."

The Wheaton letter follows:

"We have a copy of your letter dated November 16th, addressed Swayne & Hoyt, Inc., regarding discharge of Mongolian Prince, and note with interest what you have to say about the Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company, and also more particularly with reference to the fact that your bill of lading reads San Pedro.

"You will no doubt be interested in knowing that it has long since been determined that no such places as San Pedro, California and Wilmington, California, exist. Quite to the contrary and by reason of laws properly enacted and recorded, it is Los Angeles, and the question of a B-L (bill of lading) having been issued to a destination non-existant, was recently determined at a conference in New York to be invalid."

The San Francisco firm, however, does not recognize the revising of geographical locations at the New York "conference," and the following reply is of interest:

"We are very much interested to learn that San Pedro and Wilmington, etc., are off the map and that all this has been settled by a conference in New York. We should like to be apprised who the conferees were who thus disposed of the geography of this coast. It seems to us, whenever Greater San Francisco results, Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda will likewise have to disappear from the map. The strange thing is that Brooklyn still exists, and yet it is a part of Greater New York."

C. J. Colden, president of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce had the following to say in regard to the banishment of San Pedro and Wilmington from the map by Walter S. Wheaton, et al:

"San Pedro has been here since Cabrillo discovered it in 1542. The Pacific Electric, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and United States government still recognize it as a separate and distinct community, and they will continue to do so. We have our own schools, churches and in every way are separate from Los Angeles. The great trouble is that too many outsiders are trying to run the port and they are bungling it with their own ignorance. We'll find out who called this so-called conference to eliminate San Pedro and Wilmington from the map, the names of the conferees and by what authority they were acting."

Amateur Policemen Hold Up Automobiles

In their desire to experience the feeling of being a "regler" police copper, ten young men stationed themselves at the corner of San Fernando and Brand at 9 o'clock Thursday and proceeded to stop motorists as they appeared, demanding their operator's licenses and the like. One of the autoists thus held up reported the matter to the Glendale police.

Officers Claxton and Wurtz were sent to look into the matter. After giving the young men a lecture they sent them home.

RELIEF ASSOCIATION MEETING

A regular meeting of the Police and Firemen Relief association will be held in Fire House No. 1, next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Considerable business of importance is to come up at this session.

New President of Chamber of Commerce to Be Elected Tonight

Members of the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce will hold an organization meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock when a new president, vice-president, and treasurer will be elected.

Remember the Xmas Postoffice Rush!

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson has received some very nifty slides conveying information and instructions to patrons in regard to mailing packages. These will be flashed upon the screens at the local theaters to advertise one of the biggest departments Uncle Sam has in the business he is carrying on.

The postmaster is also warning the public that with the Christmas rush beginning, it will be impossible for postoffice employes to respond to telephone calls in regard to the number of stamps to be put upon parcel post packages. They must be brought to the office and weighed to avoid mistakes.

Would Keep a Poor Hearthfire Burning

There is no need of any poor people of Glendale going cold these days. O. E. Von Oven, 317 West Maple street, has a wagon load of perfectly good kindling that he wants to give away—absolutely free.

Von's one of those great big hearted men who believe in keeping the other fellow warm while you are letting him live. If Glendale goes cold it is not his fault.

BOYS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF LIQUOR

Policemen Stop Youths Because of Hang of License Plate; Wine Appears

Leo McGuire, 241 North Cedar street; Victor Raymond, 1012 Palm avenue, Burbank; Jack Whitehead, of the same address, and George Wallace, Hotel Marion, Burbank, were arrested at 9:30 o'clock Thursday night, on a charge of illegally transporting liquor in Glendale. When the boys appeared before Judge Lowe this morning they plead not guilty and the case was continued until Monday morning.

The officer stopped the boys on account of the license plate of the car, which was registered in the name of J. H. Mayall and H. Raymond, being hung irregularly. The boys evidently thought the representative of the law had "some thing on them" in connection with the "goods" they had in the car, for, as the machine stopped, one of the boys dropped a half gallon jug of "joy fluid" which the police claim was wine, to the road. The jug broke and the precious fluid ran all over the street. It is claimed that the arresting officer gathered enough of the contents of the little brown jug to serve as evidence.

RURAL ROUTES ARE STILL UNCHANGED BY WASHINGTON

The postoffice department at Washington has again postponed making the changes recommended by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson in rural routes. This is a matter on which Mr. Jackson has been working hard for a year and this decision is a very great disappointment to him. He is not giving up however and has sent a telegram to Washington protesting against inaction with the hope of securing a reversal of this latest decision. He had expected to start city deliveries on Kenneth road the first of December and had been authorized to do so, but the instructions were revoked.

LEGION CHARITY BALL TO BE BIG EVENT

The annual charity ball to be given by the American Legion, Post 127, in their hall, 610-A East Broadway on Saturday night promises to be one of the big affairs of the season.

The response of the people to buy tickets at $1 each is very encouraging. The ladies of the auxiliary are also taking a hand in the good work and will have charge of the punch bowl and decorations.

Eddie Moniot's famous five-piece orchestra will chime the time with their latest dance music and as everyone knows, Eddie can do it. A large crowd is expected.

BLAZE EXTINGUISHED

The Glendale fire department was called out at 6:40 o'clock last night to take care of a blaze at the Glendale creamery. One of the milk trucks of the company had caught fire. The conflagration was quickly extinguished.

COMMUNITY RECREATION IS SUCCESS

Junior-Senior Hi Party Has Merry Time Without Dance

100 ARE PRESENT

Enjoy Burlesque Track Meet, Automobile and Relay Races

The junior-senior community service party given Wednesday night in the girls' old gymnasium at Glendale union high school proved a very jolly affair, with 100 young people present to enjoy an original program which had been arranged, carrying out the idea of a burlesque on a college track meet. The committee in charge of arrangements included Boyd Taylor, Theodore Haig, Paul Cunningham, Paul Edmonds, Mildred Thompson, Harry Bennett, Neil Shuler, Winifred Parker, Charles Greer, Paul Holland, Thomas McClellan and Louise Dair. Miss Roberta Winans and Mr. and Mrs. Don Orput assisted in leading the games. Mrs. G. W. Lewis, Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, Mrs. P. L. Hatch and Mrs. W. A. Kulp were present as chaperones.

To add interest to the occasion the guests were divided into three groups, headed by Boyd Taylor, Harry Bennett and Donald Dietrich, representing Stanford, University of Southern California, and the University of California.

The evening's fun opened with a popularity marching game, followed by a combination of an automobile and relay race, a double header baseball game and a campus classical contest or alphabet game. Although some of the young people were skeptical as to the possibility of a good time without social dancing, soon after the games had started they were entering into the spirit of the party with pep and enthusiasm. Refreshments of "hot dogs" and pop were served and after giving the Glendale high school yell the guests disbanded shortly after 10 o'clock.

Let every resident in the valley do his part to fill the La Crescenta quota.

HIGH SHOES TABOO SAY GLENDALE MERCHANTS

According to Glendale shoe authorities, high shoes are entirely out of date for dress wear. The demand is for low shoes and spats and so slight is the call for "boots" that they are hard to get. As samples of smart footwear the Buster Brown shop on North Brand is exhibiting two-toned Oxfords in patent leather and gray or beige, with military heels; also strap slippers. For real fancy dress shoes the colonials of patent leather and satin with flaring tongues and Spanish heels are the thing.

In the Specialty Boot Shop at the entrance to the court shops on East Broadway, some very good looking high shoes are to be seen but they are manifestly for street wear. This shop specializes on comfort shoes which support the arch of the foot and "keep good arches good." It does not ignore the frivolous, however.

AT THE THEATRES

YANKEE DOODLE IS BIG SENSATION AT GLENDALE

In the making of "Yankee Doodle Jr." the breezy, thrilling melodrama that M. J. Burnside is presenting at the Glendale theatre, thousands of dollars were spent in fireworks that were used in one of the big scenes.

This sensational story of romance, fun and adventure in the heart of South America will be shown here today and tomorrow.

A wide-awake young American starts out to sell fireworks. He picks South America. In a trice he is in the center of a redhot revolution and while fighting to put it down so that a deserving president may be restored to his throne, he falls madly in love with the president's daughter. Of course that makes the plot all the more intricate.

GLORIA SWANSON SCORES TRIUMPH AT THE T. D. & L.

Gloria Swanson not only upholds the claim that she is the best dressed woman on the screen, at the T. D. and L. theatre tonight, but she shows a greater depth of emotion than has characterized any of her former pictures. The occasion is the initial presentation of her new Paramount photoplay, "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," which, adapted from a novel by David Lisle, was given a most forceful direction by Sam Wood.

Conrad Nagel is quite effective as leading man in the role of a young novelist, who alone believed in "Mrs. Bellew." Robert Cain does a striking piece of work as the despicable husband. The two Moore brothers, Pat and Mickey appear as "Lance Bellew" as he was at two different ages, and both are all that one usually expects of them. Others that stand out in a splendid cast are Herbert Standing, June Elvidge, Richard Wayne, and Helen Dunbar.

La Crescenta Personals

Miss Delia Bastable of La Crescenta, has left for a short motor trip to San Diego.

Harry Brown, who recently returned from India, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown of Montrose.

Miss Ethelynn Smith, of Bakersfield, is the guest of her mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. B. H. Smith of Los Angeles avenue, La Crescenta.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reynolds of La Crescenta, are spending several weeks in San Diego and Coronado.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Eyre, of 143 East Mayfield, La Crescenta, were guests of relatives in Pasadena for Thanksgiving day.

SOUTH DAKOTA PICNIC INVITES THEM ALL

All South Dakotans are included in the wide-open invitation to the picnic reunion in Bixby park, Long Beach, all day Saturday, December 2. If rainy that date it goes over one week. President E. L. Abel has arranged for county registers, hot coffee and program. All picnickers will bring basket dinners. Tourists and visitors will here meet the old-time friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Conlin and daughters, Misses Jessie and Sara Conlin, of La Crescenta, are spending the week-end at their ranch at Palo, Calif.

THANKSGIVING DAY FITLY HONORED

Great Union Service Held in Christian Church, Rev. Winnard Leading

What was said to be the largest union Thanksgiving service ever held in Glendale was that in Central Christian Church yesterday morning, commencing at 10 o'clock. The Federated Brotherhood had marked off the auditorium floor in sections by states but many of the sections were filled long before the service began, then the side galleries were filled and many had to be be seated in the balcony.

Rev. Louis Tinning was in charge of the meeting. Rev. H. I. Rasmus read the scripture lesson and Rev. V. Hunter Brink the Thanksgiving proclamation of President Harding. Prayers were offered by Rev. E. E. Ford and Rev. H. C. Mullen and the benediction given by Rev. Calderwood. Rev. C. A. Cole had charge of the offering for Near East Relief, which netted $193.42. After the sermon Geo. McDill, president of the Federated Brotherhood called the roll of states and it was found that only 7 of the 48 were not represented. Illinois led with 71, New York followed with 50 and Iowa with 49. And Canada had 39 representatives present. Two were there who were born in Germany, and one who claimed Switzerland as his native country. There were 29 native Californians in the audience.

Rev. James F. Winnard, pastor of the Tropico Presbyterian Church, delivered the Thanksgiving sermon and he remarked at the opening that the big new radio station in Los Angeles could not compete with him, as he was speaking to all the states in the union. His text was from Colossians, 3:15, "And be ye thankful." The sermon follows:

"This text embodies the spirit that should be uppermost in our minds on this day set apart by our nation's chief executive as a day of national thanksgiving and praise. It is but once each year that we are called to this particular service and it should be considered by us not only a great duty but also a great privilege to gather here and render praise and worship to Almighty God.

"The quality of being thankful belongs to man alone. A dog may show its joy, a cat its satisfaction, but to man only is given the ability to express his gratitude, for gratitude involves an intelligent consideration of the relationship that exists between the recipient and the benefactor.

"Many thoughts press in upon us on the day. There is the call to the football field, the lure to the auto races and the not-to-be-neglected consideration of where and what and with whom do we eat. But above all these things of time and sense should be the great central purpose of the day—Thanksgiving to Almighty God for the abundant blessings of the year that has passed.

"Scripture sets us the first great examples of periods of national Thanksgiving. The feast of the Passover, the feast of the harvest and the feast of tabernacles, all these speak of the gratitude of a mighty nation to the God who has preserved and blessed them. But so far as our own particular day is concerned there is no definite Scripture command, but Christian people everywhere will admit that the special day of thanksgiving is both appropriate and seasonable. Appropriate, for to give praise is comely and seasonable, for the harvests have been garnered and men are enjoying the fruit of their toil. The custom originated in Holland in 1577 and was first observed in America in 1621. From then until 1862 it was observed with more or less regularity but since this latter date it has been an annual custom without exception. And it is well for us to take our part in the perpetuating of the day for 'Blessed is that nation whose God is the Lord.'

"This day stands as one of the evidences that this is a Christian nation. True there may be other evidences but these partake largely of form rather than of substance. But why should this not be a Christian nation. The founders were those God-fearing peoples of the Pilgrim Fathers, the Puritans, the Hollanders, the Scotch and Irish Presbyterians, the Huguenots, the Christian Swedes, the Moravians and the Quakers. What names are these to call us back to the faith of our fathers. But the early settler differed largely from the late comer. The open door policy of our nation in times past has peopled our land with an element that knows not God nor considers the principles embodied in the American ideal. They have brought with them their foreign habits and customs and religion. And so wide has been our charity toward them that to win their favor (and their votes) we have let down the bars of almost every worthy principle for which our nation stood. Here in California even, we keep open house on the Sabbath and make it a crime to read the Bible or offer prayer in our public schools. Where, I ask, were the Christian men and women of the state when this was put over on you. No wonder there is so much juvenile delinquency, better known as juvenile deviltry, when we teach them to despise the Bible and to disregard the Sabbath Day. You men of the Federated Brotherhood gave this city a mighty fine sounding slogan in these words, 'A Clean City Kept Clean.' But what does it mean? The mere fact that pool rooms have been kept from our city is but little when the Sabbath quiet is being broken by the street paving gangs working at the very door of our churches and some of our boasted public institutions reported as veritable breeding places of iniquity. Men, let's get back to God and the institutions he has established. Put the Bible into the public school, instill Christian character into the hearts of our young people and make the Sabbath a day of holiness unto the Lord.

"But the supreme purpose of this day is expressed in the text. And 'O that men would praise the Lord for His Goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men.'

"This is more than a mere day of thanks. It is the day for cultivating a thankful spirit that should continue throughout the year. And God honors such days as these. 'Them that honor me I will honor,' says the Lord. A most practical illustration of this was given in the early summer of 1918 when across the seas the armies of the Allies were being beaten back day by day and the enemy was almost within sight of the gates of Paris. Then it was that President Woodrow Wilson called the nation to a day of prayer and confession and almost with the passing of the day the tide of battle turned and never afterward did the enemy win an important engagement.

"We should not be a race of spiritual barbarians, but with a sense of the propriety of things should be as courteous unto God as we are to our friends. Who among you would sit at the table of your friend this day and partake of the bounteous dinner and arise and go your way without one word of appreciation of the hospitality of your host? Shall we be less considerate of God and His wondrous bounties bestowed upon us? May the spirt of the text fill our today and all the days until our lives shall be one continual hymn of praise to Him from whom all blessings flow."

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Parker, of 221 North Central avenue, and their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Lyman of Santa Barbara, were guests at an annual Thanksgiving gathering yesterday at the home of Dr. Lyman's father, E. M. Lyman of Long Beach.

OLD TIME POWER AT TROPICO CHURCH

The old time power is being manifested in the Dunlop party revival at Tropico Presbyterian church. Many people crowd the altar each night.

"This is what we can expect," said Dr. Dunlop, "for with faithful praying like the Christians have done here and with the preaching of the old time gospel, God always gives His blessing. In sixteen years of evangelism I have never seen it fail. We are praising God for this signal manifestation of His favor. Work hard, Christians, and we will have scores more converts."

Tonight the theme will be "The Broad Road to Hell." The evangelists will sing, "Drinking at the Fountain. A big delegation from Burbank will attend the meeting. SHERWOOD MUSIC SCHOOL SECURES BAND MASTER

Completing the faculty of the Sherwood Music school, 214 East Broadway, Howard Edward Cavanah, director, announces that Professor A. Rovero has been secured to take charge of the band instrument department and Zilla Ernestine Withrow to superintend the classical and aesthetic dancing.

Professor Rovero, who is a graduate of the Conservatory of Music in Naples, Italy, where he studied under the famous theorist and musician, Professor Platania, is prepared to teach pupils on the cornet, trumpet, flute, clarinet, saxophone, horns, trombone, bass, drums and also the guitar and mandolin. It is the intention of the school management to form a band among the boys as quickly as enrollment has reached the necessary number of instruments, which would be approximately fifteen to twenty on the various instruments outlined above, according to Mr. Cavanah, who states that approximately two or three months of careful work will fit the young people to play the simple band pieces.

Mr. Rovero was conductor for the Philadelphia city band, and has had experience with orchestras in various cities, notably among which are the symphony orchestras of St. Paul and St. Louis. At the latter city he was connected with the St. Louis Conservatory of Music. His experience was also broadened by his many years as Italy before coming to America. He was director in the University of Missoula, Montana, where he also had charge of the public and high school music. Mr. Rovero comes to Glendale from San Diego, where he was director of the College of Music.

Miss Withrow, who will have charge of the department of interpretative dancing is said to be fully capable and experienced, having had her training with the Egan school, as well as having been instructor at the same institution for a number of years. Her work will include all the classical and aesthetic dancing.

Mr. Cavanah is very well pleased with the enrollment, which he says is progressing very satisfactorily.

DISEASE AND INSECTS DAMAGE

According to statements of plant pathologists and entomologists, the United States loses annually millions of dollars by harboring plant diseases and insects in orchards, gardens and fields of the country.

Many of these plant pests are unknown or are of little importance in California. Some work on the roots of the plant and are overlooked by the grower until it is too late to practice control measures.

While it may not be necessary for the orchardist to know the life history and habits of all of the diseases and insects, affecting deciduous fruits of California it is quite essential that he should be able to recognize the most important and to know something of their feeding habits. He should be able to know the difference between fungous diseases which can be controlled by spraying and bacterial which must be cut out. He should be able to recognize the foliage injury caused by a chewing insect and the injury due to one which sucks the juices from twig or foliage. Also he should know the best method of control for each.

A lecture and conference period is given to the subject of Diseases and Insect Pest Control by the division of pomology, University of California, during the Farmers' short course in deciduous fruits, which is to be given December 4 to 9.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Too much meat may form uric acid, which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Big meat eaters can flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like they relieve the bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else they may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad they have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.—Adv.

Defensive Bids Over a No Trump

Some of the most difficult problems of Auction arise when a No Trump bid is made on right, and the next player holds a strong hand. The fact that he has the lead makes it unnecessary to bid a suit to give his partner information, so that as a rule, the suit should not be bid unless there is fair chance for game. Bidding with No Trump on the right when one has the lead, is of more value to opponents than to partner. It reveals to them the weak spot of their No Trump and frequently enables them to shift to a game bid that otherwise would not have been bid. The old rule was: Don't bid over a No Trump on right unless able to re-bid without hearing from partner. This rule is no longer so sound as formerly, as the informatory doubles have practically superseded the bid over a No Trump on right. With a hand containing two or more quick tricks well distributed, it has been found that a double gives better results than a bid. This will be taken up more at length in the articles on the Doubles. There are hands, however, that still must be bid over a No Trump and the following is a good example:

Hearts — Q, 7
Clubs — K, J, 10, 8, 6
Diamonds — A, K, J, 9, 7, 4
Spades —

A No Trump was bid by dealer and second hand, holding the preceding hand, bid two Diamonds. Third and fourth hands passed, and the dealer doubled. Second hand now realized that the Spade and Heart suits must be evenly divided; otherwise either dealer or his partner would have bid one of these suits. Therefore, in order to shut out a major suit bid by dealer's partner, he bid four Diamonds, was doubled and made five odd.

The foregoing hand is a good illustration of the kind of hand that must be bid over a No Trump on right. Such bids are not defensive bids and should never be so interpreted by partner. They are analyzed here because of the more or less prevalent practice of bidding any old suit over a No Trump on right. This practice should be limited strictly to the type of hands already analyzed.

The real defensive bid over an original No Trump is where it is bid on the left, and fourth hand bids for the lead. Such hands always are problems, and it is difficult to lay down a set rule. The requirements for a defensive bid should always be followed; they are one and one-half quick tricks in the suit bid, or at least one-half quick trick in the suit bid and one quick trick in an outside suit. The bidder under such conditions must always bear in mind the fact that by bidding for the lead he is asking his partner to lead that suit, and therefore should not bid it unless fairly sure that by so doing he stands a better chance to save game than by letting partner lead his own suit. This is one of the difficult problems of Auction—when to bid for the lead over a No Trump on left, and when to pass and let partner lead his suit. It's a case where a player must use great discretion and good judgment. Many a game is won or lost by a good or bad bid under these conditions. The following example hands are supposed to be held by fourth hand, the dealer having bid one No Trump, and second and third hands having passed:

Hearts — 10, 8
Clubs — K, Q, 10, 7, 6
Diamonds — 7, 6, 2
Spades — 9, 7, 5

Bid two Clubs.

Hearts — A, 4, 3, 2
Clubs — 7, 6
Diamonds — Q, J, 10, 7, 6
Spades — J, 2

Bid two Diamonds.

Hearts — Q, 4, 2
Clubs — Q, 9, 7, 6, 2
Diamonds — J, 10, 7
Spades — K, 4, 2

Pass. This is the type of hand that can support any lead by partner.

Hearts — 7, 6, 2
Clubs — 9, 3, 2
Diamonds — A, K, 10, 9
Spades — 4, 3, 2

Bid two Diamonds. The hand is too weak to stand any other lead.

'PRISONER OF ZENDA' AT THE UNITED

Eagle Rock Folks to Have Chance to View Great Film

The people of Eagle Rock will have an opportunity next Sunday and Monday to see the big production of Anthony Hope's story, "The Prisoner of Zenda," made by Rex Ingram, whose "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" has been the sensation of the film world .

"The Prisoner of Zenda," as produced by Mr. Ingram, is a faithful transiation to the screen of the famous story, the settings being especially elaborate and the costumes lavish, while the cast reads like the "Who's Who" of the film world, including these well known favorites: Alice Terry, Lewis Stone, Robert Edeson, Stuart Holmes, Ramon Navarro, Barbara La Marr, Malcolm McGregor, Edward Connelly and Lois Lee.

The United-American Film Talent Contest to select, by pouular vote, one young lady to represent this city in a standard production soon to be produced, seems to have resurrected the familiar slogan, "Vote Early and Often," a relic of the old days of ward politics. A number of young ladies are diligently engaged in persuading their friends to save voting coupons to be cast in their favor, and some of the contestants already have polled enough votes for a very creditable showing in the final count.

"What's Wrong with the Women," which proved very popular with two large holiday audiences yesterday, will be repeated tonight for the last time. Saturday's feature picture will be "Vengeance Trail," featuring "Big Boy" Williams.

A PROCLAMATION

By the President of the United States of America

The ideals of democratic government and democratic education were planted simultaneously in our country. The fathers rightly believed that only a people trained to vision of public needs and duties could develop and maintain the institutions of popular government. The system of universal education, established in the beginning has developed with the country and become one of the characteristic features of our life. In it we have laid the foundation of that system of American culture which has enabled us to absorb and assimilate millions who have come to us from many countries, bringing the traditions of widely varying institutions.

In order that we may keep in mind the need constantly to improve our educational system it is proposed that the week of December 3-9 inclusive be set asitle for special observance as American Education Week. It is recommended to the governors of the states that they cooperate with the educational and civic authorities of their commonwealths to make the week a period for revival of interest in the broad work of national education.

It is gratifying to know that in a time when public burdens have lain very heavy upon the people there has been everywhere a determined purpose to maintain education unimpaired, in order that the coming generation may be equipped, regardless of sacrifices in the present, for the increasing responsibilities which it must bear.

"Without vision the people perish." Without education there can be little vision. Of education it may be said that "It is twice blest; it blesseth him that gives and him that takes." It will be greatly worth the effort if, as an incident to the observance of Education Week, we can impress this thought upon the young manhood and womanhood of the nation and redirect their interest and patriotic zeal to the idea of making a proper contribution to educational work. It is regrettable that so few young men and women, equipped for such service, are nowadays disposed to give their time and talents to teaching. Education needs their young eagerness, zeal and enthusiasm. There is no school of discipline more effective than that in which the teacher goes to school. We could do no greater service than by convincing those young men and women who have enjoyed educational opportunities, that they owe a reasonable share of their time and energies to teaching.

The strength and security of the nation will always rest in the intelligent body of its people. Our education should implant conceptions of public duty and private obligation broad enough to envisage the problems of a greatly distraught world. More than anything else, men and women need the capacity to see with clear eye and to contemplate with open, unprejudiced mind the issues of these times. Only through a properly motivated and generously inspired process of education can this be accomplished.

In view, then, of these and many other considerations, I hereby proclaim the week of December 3-9 as American Education Week, recommending to the appropriate national, state and local authorities that they give their cordial support and cooperation to making its observance inspirational and beneficial. Civic organizations and religious bodies may render special service by their cooperation; and particularly it is recommended that parents enlist themselves in behalf of closer understanding between the school and the home, with the purpose of mutual helpfulness.

IN CONSIDERATION AND WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United tSates to be affixed.

DONE in the City of Washington, this 20th day of November, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two, and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and Forty-seventh. (SEAL) By the President, WARREN G. HARDING. Charles E. Hughes, Secretary of State.

SPEAKS ON RABIES

"Rabies and Its Control and Prevention" is the subject of the address to be given by Dr. Adolph Eichhorn of Pearl River, N. Y., at the post-graduate school for veterinarians to be held at the State College of Washington, January 9-12.

Dr. John F. Devine of Goshen, N. Y., has also been secured for the meeting by the college in cooperation with the veterinary medical associations of Oregon, Idaho, and Washington, and Dr. A. O. Langley of San Francisco, has signified his intention of attending the school. Dr. Langley is manager of the Lederle Laboratories, and Dr. Devine is one of the most prominent veterinary practitioners in the east.

Dr. Eichhorn has just returned from Europe, where he has been visiting laboratories and experiment stations to see what progress has been made there since the war. He has been asked to speak on "The Glandular Extracts and their Use in Veterinary Medicine," in addition to his address on rabies.

An Englishman, newly arrived in this country, was taken home to dinner one night by a friend. There was corn on the table and the host, knowing that most Englishmen are not very familiar with this vegetable, asked if he liked it.

"Oh, yes," replied the visitor, apparently not wishing to appear discourteous, "I like it."

But when the platter of Golden Bantam was passed he did not take any.

"Why," said the host, "I thought you said you liked corn."

"I do like it," explained the Englishman, "but I don't like it well enough to eat it."

MILK BOTTLES!

In many instances milk botles are not returned to dealers but are used as containers for other products and more often discarded or destroyed.

To protect their property against further loss and destruction and to stop this enormous expense which is eventually paid by the consuming public, the Milk Dealers of Southern California, hereafter, will require a deposit of 5 cents per bottle from customers not returning bottle for bottle when purchasing milk from either milk wagon drivers or grocery stores.

CANDY SALE AND TAG DAY IS BIG SUCCESS

Proceeds Donated to Athletic and Library Fund

Most successful was the candy sale and tag day at the La Crescenta School Wednesday. The proceeds of this drive were donated to the library and athletic fund. The program given at the school auditorium Wednesday evening was greatly enjoyed by a large audience. The outstanding feature of the evening was the Puritan Play given by the 5th and 6th grades and the Indian song by the 1st grade.

GLENDALE'S GIFT SHOPS ALLURING BAZAARS

The most fascinating marts in Glendale at this season of the year are the gift shops, with their multitudes of clever novelties. The east side in the neighborhood of Glendale avenue is well served by the Alice-Marie Shop on East Broadway, which not only has an astonishing array of useful things put up in dainty Christmas containers but a big stock of Christmas cards, lamp shades, fancy candles and candle sticks, and dozens of other appealing things that are certain to charm customers.

Further west on Broadway is the "Lamp Gift Shop" in the court at 211 East Broadway. Here can be found beauty in line and color in almost every guise but particularly in lamps in which the shop specializes. It is a dainty salesroom and deservedly attracts the attention of every passer-by. The variety of its stock is bewildering, the difficulty being to choose which pretty to buy.

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Advertisement.

THE TIGERS' CHAMPIONSHIP CLAIM

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Princeton, with an established championship of the "Big Three," has as good a claim as any other eleven for the football championship of the east.

Looking over the schedule which the Tigers went through without being defeated, perhaps they have the best claim on the title.

Cornell, beyond doubt, has a wonderful team, but the Ithacans had no opponent on their schedule to class with Chicago, Yale and Harvard.

Lafayette and Washington and Jefferson also had fine football machines, but until both institutions established the three-year rule of eligibility there will always be some sentiment against classing them with other teams who work under the handicap of a freshman rule.

* * * * * * *

In many ways, Princeton had a most remarkable team in 1922. It looked like the blossom of a bust in late September, but it bloomed into one of the greatest of the many great elevens that have carried the Orange and Black colors.

Before each of the big games the critics predicted that Princeton should not win, but they probably would.

The spirit of the Princeton team, that never admitted defeat, even when the evidence was powerful at hand, is worded on a sign posted in the Tiger clubhouse:

"A team that won't be beaten, can't be beaten."

The Tigers have been called arch-opportunists, eternal vigilants and champion luckers. Everything fits them but the luck accusation.

The breaks did come for Princeton in Chicago and Harvard games and they didn't waste one chance to score. When the opportunity came they made the best of it. The luck all went against them in Yale game, but they won because they got only one chance to score and they scored on that one chance.

* * * * * * *

Princeton had no outstanding stars at the start of the season and perhaps the Tigers will not have representation on all the All-American elevens, but after watching that team play no one will deny that IT WAS A TEAM.

* * * * * * *

After what he did this season, Bill Roper will have to be recognized as a great coach. In the last four years Harvard hasn't been able to beat the Tigers and Harvard is generally recognized as having the greatest football system in the country. The Houghton style of play is obviously superior to Yale's but it does not seem to work against a team that "won't be beaten."

* * * * * * *

Harvard accused the Tigers of playing dirty football in 1921 and 1922. If there is any straian like that in Princeton players it must get itself out against Harvard, because none of it has been apparent in other games.

Princeton admittedly plays hard football, it runs hard and it tackles hard, but that is part of the game.

In the game against Yale, "Pink" Baker, the great Princeton tackle, had a chance to throw Charley O'Hearn for a dirty fall. O'Hearn is so fragile that he might have been knocked out for the rest of the season with a heavy fall. Baker, however, didn't throw him. He just grabbed and held him.

Some stories are being told about the horrible language that Princeton used against the Chciago players last year and how rough work knocked out so many of the Chicago eleven.

It will be recalled, however, that several of the Princeton men were practically lost for the season in that game, so if Chicago was being roughed they weren't taking it like little lambs.

Truths in Epigram

The true art of being agreeable is rather to appear to receive entertainment from others than to bring entertainment to them.—Addison.

Every man has in himself a continent of undiscovered character. Happy is he who acts the Columbus to his own soul.—Anonymous.

RUSSIAN CLAIMS DENIED

Russia demanded the right to participate in the Near East conference on an equal basis with other power. It is said that the British and French will flatly decline to concede the privilege. This leaves Italy still to be heard from. Probably its voice will be for Russia, but it will have to yield to the combined larger powers.

Doubtless Russia is concerned in the matters to be considered, but that this lends legitimacy to its demand to be on an equal basis, does not appear. The constant endeavor of Russia has seemed to be to make clear the fact that it stood upon a plane of its own; that it was different in all respects from other forms of government, and desired so to remain; that it repudiated the principles that make good faith possible between nations. This places France and England in a somewhat embarrassing position, but probably the stand they have elected to take will be deemed the wisest possible.

Russia has to be judged by its recent past. Therefore, there would be no way to determine that its delegates were speaking the truth, or that their pledges were being given for any purpose but to be broken at convenience. From its inception, and in the very act of inception, the course of the soviet regime has been treachery and double-dealing.

No nation, more than an individual, may eat its cake and have it. Russia deliberately stepped outside the ranks of civilization to establish an oligarchy. When it desires to step back, it hardly may expect to be welcome in the absence of proof that it is sincere, and that once back, it plans to stay, to be a part of organized society rather than the foe of every convention that organized society deems worth preserving.

HARVEY'S COMMON SENSE ERA

Ambassador Harvey in a London address mentioned what he termed the commonplaceness of great events. He had in mind the general election in England, the deposition of the head of the sectarian body of Turkey, the Near East situation, and the revolution in Italy. Even more remarkable he deemed the circumstance that there had been no bloodshed. And "upon my word," he added, "we have paid not much attention to any of them." After these citations he concluded that "a dominion of common sense" had come over the world. Mr. Harvey fails to be convincing.

There has been bloodshed. Fresh tragedy at this moment broods over the whole Balkan region. The future of Europe is in the balance. It is not giving a fair estimate of human intelligence to hold that not much attention is being paid to the complex problems. There would be scant evidence of common sense were humanity napping in supposed security on the side of a volcano.

It is possible that even great events, as current history is being made of a series of such events, do not each arouse vociferous emotions. In a way, human perceptions have become dulled. Yet the aggregate of great events forms a momentous spectacle. If as a whole, they are viewed in comparative silence, it is not that common sense sways the minds of men, but that men are dazed and bewildered.

A few days ago Smyrna became a heap of ruins in which countless people had perished miserably. Warnings come that thousands more of non-Turkish people, usually classed as Christians, a racial rather than a religious distinction, are in the most dire straits. They must die unless rescued from without. Appeals are being made in poignant earnestness. The help is not in sight.

Does this leave the nations cold, submerged under a blanket of common sense?

AMENDING THE SUBSIDY BILL

Doubtless some of the proffered amendments to the subsidy bill have been framed for the purpose of handicapping the measure. This will not be deemed the case with all of them. One amendment, for example, forbids that the Standard Oil company be paid by the government for transporting its own wares in its own ships, a process which there is reason to believe, has proved eminently profitable. This great organization does not have the status of the merchant marine as a whole. It is not deemed to be in need of aid. It is not engaged in an almost hopeless struggle to get a start in business on the seas. It is so nearly in control of its own destinies that for it to seek government help would appear an anomolous procedure. If the shipping that might be available in this country were all conditioned as that portion of it belonging to Standard oil, there could not be any impulse to vote a subsidy, because the proposition would verge upon the absurd.

The fact is that the ships now held by the government are sufficient in number to form an extremely creditable merchant marine. They cannot be operated, by reason of circumstances set forth many times. There is no market for them, and can be no market until such time as investors shall be able to figure out a return on the investment necessary to their acquisition and equipping. The United States may be represented on the seas again. The opportunity is at hand. Or the people of this country may continue to depend upon foreign bottoms to convey their goods. The choice of courses rests with congress.

THE KU KLUX OF NEW YORK

Mayor Hylan of New York probably is not held in high esteem the country over, but his attitude towards the ku klux will win wide approval. He has instructed his police to suppress them as they would any other law-breakers. It is a singular circumstance that the organization there should be represented by a minister. This man declares that the ku klux will make New York its stronghold. In the order of the mayor, and the defiance of the minister, there is the challenge to war, and the acceptance.

If any minister believes that by espousing this menacing and meddlesome thing, he can lift it to the level at which he himself ought to stand, he is mistaken. He is handling pitch and he will be defiled. He will sink to the level of the rabble. The United States has a government to the sustaining of which all may contribute. They who fight in the dark, by cowardly assault, by intimidation through threats, far from sustaining the government, become its enemies.

NO MORE WAR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The people should never lose sight of the fact that there is no issue before them that compares in importance with doing away with war.

Dr. Frank Crane

This means more to the human race and every nation of it than any other political, economical, or religious question.

The possibility of war, the probability of it, and the preparation for it are taxing every man's pocketbook and threatening the life of every man's children.

Every newspaper, magazine, preacher, lecturer or other person or thing that deals with the public mind should earnestly cooperate in making this issue a live one.

For this end, the salient facts should be often summarized and expressed simply and clearly, such as, for instance:

1. Sentiment will not end war. War is caused simply by the fact that it is the only present method for settling disputes between nations. It is not sentiment that causes that method, it is tradition.

2. War can be stopped without "changing human nature." In '49 Californians toted guns. In '59 they had stopped. Why? Had human nature changed? No, they had merely set up courts and found another way of settling their disputes.

3. War is wholly the result of defective world organization. It has no other cause. Therefore, the only way to stop it is to organize the world.

4. Such a world organization would be efficient under any name, whether League of Nations, Society of Nations, International Court or what not.

5. Such an organization would, of course, be defective at first, and would have to grow, just as our courts have had to develop a body of law. But without such an organization war will never stop.

6. It is idle talk of reducing armaments until there is dependable world organization, just as it is foolish to ask a man to give up his gun until he knows a police force has been established.

7. A world organization in nowise implies giving up nationalities. In fact, the soldier and more patriotic each nation, the better unit it will be in the Federation of the World.

8. The problem of ending war is one of life and death for the world. There is every probability that the next war will be infinitely more horrible than the last.

"Is it true that practically the entire population of London could be killed by gas within twelve hours?" Thomas A. Edison was asked.

"It is not true," he replied. "The thing could be done within three hours. There is no means of preventing an airplane flotilla from flying over London tomorrow and asphyxiating the inhabitants of that city in a relatively short time."

9. No preacher who will not throw himself with all his energy into the propaganda against war is worthy of his sacred calling. No such minister of religion has any business in the pulpit. To try to save half a dozen souls and neglect the problem of saving millions is wholly absurd.

10. Make sure that the man for whom you vote for congressman or senator is in favor of some definite plan of world government. All candidates will say they are opposed to war and in favor of peace. This means nothing, and is often pure bunk. See that he has some definite plan and that he will work hard for it.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

"MR. PROHACK"

By Arnold Bennett.

"The Right Word" is reviewing the style of modern books of well known authors to determine ultimately usage as regards a vast number of locutions and words. Some of these locutions and words are supposed to have recognized usage; in such cases the findings of "The Right Word" will merely verify the universal understanding, emphasize what is correct, and impart instruction: some, however, are often disputed as to usage; in these cases the findings will slowly but surely throw the weight of evidence to one side or the other and determine what is preferred.

On page 70 of "Mr. Prohack" there is a good illustration of the correct use of whom. The author's own words are "Beyond everything he enjoyed the sight of the lithest and most elegant of the girls, whom he knew to be Eliza Brating." The construction is analogous to "He knew him to be Mr. Smith"; as, (rearranged) He knew whom to be Eliza Brating.

On page 232 Mr. Prohack says: ". . . . and possibly one per cent is not in debt." There are two criticisms to be made of this excerpt. The first is that "cent" is an abbreviation and should be followed by a period; as, per cent. is not in debt. The second is that "one per cent." is a collective noun, is used for persons considered individually, and should therefore be followed by a plural verb; as, one per cent. are not in debt. The collective noun appears again on page 131 in the following excerpt: ". . . . and Charles's family was put in charge of a hovering attendant boy, who escorted it in a lift and along a mile of corridors, and Charlie's family was kept waiting a ta door . . . . ." The foregoing excerpt would be much smoother and more sensible if were, them, and were had been substituted for was, it and was.

On page 27 the possessive of the pronoun should should have been used in the following: "On it being pointed out to Mr. Prohack . . . ." The right word is it's. On page 281 a similar error appears in the excerpt, " . . . . you can read about them getting married that day." The right word is their, but it is uttered by Eve and is not the author's own selection.

Then the author writes, "He soothed her as none but he could." The right word is him, but being a preposition requiring an object.

Finally, in the following excerpt from page 172 the a in "sort of a house" should have been omitted: ". . . . it seemed to be no sort of a house for a man with . . . . ."

"Mr. Prohack" is an interesting and cleverly written novel on the results of a family's unexpected acquisition of riches.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Freedom.
To go about as your please.
To take the train if you wish.
Or to make a call.
To play a round of golf, if you are a golfer.

Perhaps you want to go to the office.
Or to the club.
You may want to walk.
You may want a cab.
You may prefer a street car.
However it may be, you exercise your own free will.

The country offers attractions.
You think you will have a lunch and take a stout stick and go off for a hike in the hills.
Or it may be a friend has asked you somewhere.
To spend a day or two.
Where there are books and a fireplace and all that.

It may be there is a play somewhere you wish to see.
Or music you want to hear.
Or it may be you want to stay at home and read and smoke.
To go to bed when you wish.
To do just as you please.

* * *

Freedom.
Independence of thought and action.
Not to be fettered or manacled or locked in a cell.
A very great blessing and privilege freedom is.
People did not always have it.
They were serfs or retainers.
Compelled to come and go at the will of some feudal lord or master.

Freedom continues only as long as we deserve it.

Freedom from pain and illness is dependent largely upon ourselves.

Freedom from pernicious habit is ours to have if we will.

When we cease to deserve freedom we lose it.

We are free to come and go as we choose as long as we deserve that freedom.

When we cease to deserve it society takes it away from us.

Puts manacles upon us and locks us within walls and sets us at given tasks.

No longer do we come and go as we choose.
We come and go as someone chooses for us.
Because we have ceased to deserve freedom.
It is no longer safe for society to permit us to remain free.
So freedom is taken away from us.

It is a pretty fine thing to deserve freedom.
To value its privileges so highly that we do not abuse them.
To be unmanacled and unfettered and let to follow our own wills.
And it is only a discharge of the natural responsibilities of men and women that we can remain in any measure free.

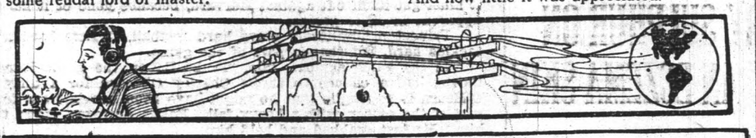
A court room and a judge and a prisoner and manacles and a prison guard and a few spoken words that condemn a once free human being to cell and locked gates and bars and bondage.

And then perhaps does that particular human being realize what a blessing freedom was.

And how little it was appreciated.



Songs of the Poets

Why?—By E. S. V. Z. in Life

There are wraiths who wander in Flanders Fields
what time the night grows old,
And laughter comes from them mockingly, as if their hearts were cold.
I dreamed the dream that I walked with them
across the sod
Where heroes fought in a cause divine and gave their lives for God.

And it seemed to me that my soul grew sad at words the spectres spoke:
"We died to weaken the grip of war—the world
still wears its yoke!
Our martyrdom, was it made in vain? Our youth, was it lost for naught?
And what of the peace we passed to win, and the faith for which we fought?

"Our souls were strong and our hearts were high, but we hated the hell we made.
And they called us knights and they wept for us
who died in a new crusade;
They paid us homage and hymned our deeds and decked our graves with flowers—
Now may the glory go all to them, for the bitterness is ours!

"Have they kept their word that the world should know no more of war when we Had met the foe on a field of fire and won our victory?
They prate of peace, but they arm and fight, and ever the fated die—
Is it strange that we who were sacrificed should rise and ask them: 'Why?'"

BAD MANNERS AND BAD MORALS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

A seething sister has just informed me amidst much smoke that she can't marry her girls off because they are "too nice."

"It's only 'fast' girls who marry nowadays," she sputtered, "and I won't have my girls misbehaving, no, not for all the men in the world."

Mildly, I inquired how she had reached her conclusions; and she replied that her daughter's chum always had a "raft" of beaux and that she had peeped through the window one night with intent to see how the job was done and had found said chum locked in the arms of a delighted lad who was kissing her.

"And now that girl has married the richest bachelor in town and my girl is still working in an office, I tell you deceney don't pay."

Whew.

"How many girls have you?" I asked.

"Three, and all of them pretty and smart. I know that. But they don't allow liberties; that's why they can't marry."

I demurred and out of curiosity began a quiet investigation and here is what came out: The complaining mother is a woman of atrocious table manners. She is slovenly, careless and utterly impervious to the daintier things of life, regarding all etiquette as an affectation of the 'fastidious,' as she calls well bred people. It is not the good conduct of her daughters that has frightened off the men she would like to have visit them. It is her own disregard for good breeding. This I told her, and she blazed.

"Do you mean to tell me," she cried, "that men care more for the fol de rols of etiquette than they do for decency?"

"No, not that. But it is so much easier to see bad manners than it is to see bad morals. Most men wish to get on in the world and they try to marry women whose families will not announce to the public their disregard for the usages of good society. A man who had, for example, just been elected to office could easily be made the subject of ridicule by his wife's mother if she ate like a tramp; but if the mother had merely kissed the preacher or the family doctor behind the door the chances are that this secret proceeding would forever remain secret.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WOMEN IN POLITICS

[Detroit Free Press]

A special correspondent of the Free Press in Washington reports that the women around the headquarters of both of the old parties are complaining about the attitude of the men toward them. They have various special grievances, one of them being that the democratic managers are not supporting Mrs. Olesen in Minnesota, but in a general way their discontent is due to the feeling that the men are using them for humble errand running but are keeping them out of all the places where the grand strategy of the campaign is planned and the big things done.

On this point Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt is quoted as saying that women all over the country are bitter because they have been admitted only to the ante-chamber while the real work is done behind a closed door in a small room reached only by a secret passage.

One has no difficulty in believing that the women have found the seats around the highest council tables in both parties are all reserved. They always have been, and it is not the women alone who are given something less than a keyhole view of what is going on inside. Thousands of male politicians are nursing perennial grouches because whenever they approach the inner circle somebody shoulders them out. Still old leaders do fall and new men do push their way to the front. The newcomers get there by demonstrating more than usual capacity for party management. Personal influence, political sagacity, organizing ability are the elements that count most, and the man who shows he has those qualities by winning victories at the polls cannot be kept out of the places where political power is exerted.

The women will find in the long run that what is true among the men will be true regarding them. Doubtless there is some sex prejudice to overcome, but it will melt away before any woman who proves that she can bring heme the votes. If some woman should establish herself firmly in congress, for instance, carrying elections in her district time after time, and growing in political wisdom, she might get as good a place in seats of the mighty as Uncle Joe Cannon ever had.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The habit of naming the greatest man, or the greatest group of men, measured in terms of intelligence or achievement, is merely a form of amusement. Some individuals play the saxophone, some like checkers, and others name the greatest figures of history. Of course the result is meaningless. There is no earthly way to ascertain the truth. There could be no absolute truth because erring human judgment would vary. What to one might appear to be the truth, to another might utterly fail to make appeal.

HENRY JAMES

Recently the Epworth league decided by solemn vote that the greatest mortal triumvirate was made up of Edison, Roosevelt and Shakespeare, ranking in the order named.

Editor Brisbane, poking fun at this selection, as any editor in the world would have done, named his pet three as Aristotle, Shakespeare and Newton. Certainly he will not be deemed to be correct, and yet he emerges with a leg to stand on, which is more than may be said of the worthy members of the league.

Probably any intelligent person making up such a list would include Shakespeare. There was a mind of such overwhelming grasp that in all human history, probably its equal is not to be cited. As to Aristotle and Newton, they may be set down as guesses. Probably not another individual of perspicacity such as Brisbane's, would make the same selections.

Former Premier Nitti of Italy says that America should refuse all supplies to Europe "until she limits her armaments and marches decidedly towards peace."

There is much to sustain such a view. If the nations over there would rather fight than eat, the choice seems to be up to them.

The Los Angeles police have been under the painful necessity of killing more of the ruffians who prowl around armed, preying upon society. It is pitiful to realize that some individuals are so low that the only way to reform them, or to safeguard life and property, is to destroy them.

Scientists state that the site of New York once was part of the ocean bed. There still are changes in progress in the form of the earth's crust. Indeed, the assertion that the creative process has not been completed, but continues, and is constant, seems quite within reason.

The story, of course, is that the globe has acquired a stability not subject to further radical change.

Secretary Denby is much perturbed over the excesses of naval cadets after the recent football game, and with good reason. He described the affair in which they participated as a "drunken orgy."

The drunken orgy, as a social relaxation has gone decidedly out of favor. It certainly has no place among the cadets of an institution that assumes a high moral standard, and takes pride in discipline.

There is, of course, much nonsense uttered concerning the quartering of black troops along the Rhine by the French. Such troops would have been objectionable only if their conduct had been marked by viciousness, but the truth seems to be that they behaved as well as any equal number of white troops.

The United States used colored troops in the war. Their presence, on several occasions of going over the top, was not pleasing to the enemy, but even at that there were no ethical grounds for a kick.

Just as her third trial for murder is about to begin, Madalynne Obenchain is given the freedom of a newspaper's columns, for a series of observations concerning her views on life generally. As preliminary to her former trials there was similar effort to create an atmosphere of sympathy for her. The idea sought to be conveyed is that she is a woman in trouble, an object appealing to the pity. That she is charged with a crime, that any circumstance points to the possibility that she may be guilty of the crime, are facts to be waived.

Perhaps this is journalistic enterprise. Just the same there will be many to whom it will appear as a frank and simple indecency.

The Automobile Club of Southern California has declared that the chuck hole must go. This is the proper spirit. Human happiness is jarred clear out of the mortal frame by a series of chuck holes.

It also is difficult for a driver, hitting hole after hole, (because if he seeks to dodge one colony, he finds himself in the midst of another) to preserve that high moral status, and that equanimity of temper, which every worthy driver considers his legitimate possession.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

If ever I am born again, or re-incanted, or incarnated, or whatever it is they call the pouring of old human wine into new human bottles, I want to be born with a high opinion of myself. I want to be able to look at other people with a tolerant smile. I want to listen to some poor, excited bird, who knows more in a minute than I will ever discover in a decade, emptying his mental self in an effort to impress me, and when he gets through I want to say:

"Yes? Really!"

Because that is the way to get by. I am not convinced that all of us are to be classified under the general head of mutts, which is not a pretty word and is hereby apologized for, but has a certain descriptive tang. But lots of us are. We are not equipped with acids and test tubes and files, in a manner of speaking. So that when some man of brass comes along and says:

"I am the true metal."

we accept him without demur. For this reason people buy stock in gold mines, oil wells, cat ranches, fox farms, sea-motors, and a few million other enterprises which should make good and sometimes do make good, but more often merely line the promoters' pockets with illicit gold. A counterfeit $10 bill passes just as long as it isn't challenged. A man who says he is a cataplastic virtuoso on the piano is that very thing if no one asks him to play.

Most of us are modest, kindly, well-meaning, credulous people. Hence the other sort victimize us. If and when I am born again into this world of sin and sorrow, I propose to veneer my good qualities with a heavy plating of assurance. I believe that if you have good qualities, you should give them the same chance to be heard from that the patent medicine peddlers of this world give their nostrums. Do not let the second-raters do all the bragging.

Remember the advice Priscilla gave John Alden? The young man had been talking his fair young head off for Miles Standish, but when it came to urging his own claim to Priscilla's hand the cat seemed to have got his tongue. She told him to speak up.

There are lots of us John Aldens in the world—and we ought to snap out of it. For there are many Miles Standishes ready to exploit us.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

The tariff on dimethyldiaminodiphenylmethylbenzylammonium and tetramethane has been raised by the bill recently passed by congress.

Means will have to be devised to make domesticated birds use their wings to prevent their becoming steadily smaller breasted and so furnishing less meat, it is claimed.

Gas, which Napoleon called "a big folly," is now used for lighting, heating and cooking by approximately 48,000,000 people in the United States.

There are 525 known uses for the white, odorless, tasteless, light bass wood, the largest quantities of which have been furnished by Wisconsin and Michigan in the last 20 years.

W. E. EVANS IS BACK FROM THE EAST

Friends of Attorney W. E. Evans were glad to see his smiling face in Glendale Wednesday morning and have the assurance of their eyes that he had returned from his trip to the Atlantic coast. After leaving here the 25th of October he went to Albany, N. Y., to try a case in the courts there in which he represented two heirs to a large estate who live in California. At the conclusion of the trial he went to New York to wind up certain legal matters with the trustees of the estate which detained him for several days. One of them was election day, which brought a disappointment in the democratic victories registered. Leaving there November 9 he went to his old home in London, Ky., to visit his mother and while there had a good rest and some old-time hunting. On leaving London he went to Waterloo, Iowa, where he was engaged with Isadore Dockweiler of Los Angeles, in the trial of a guardianship case which occupied two days. At its conclusion he took the train for home. He reports weather snappy and pleasantly cold, with occasional rains, but in the main very nice. In spite of being exceedingly busy most of the time he had a very nice trip and came home laden with good old southern goodies sent by the relatives in London.

WOMEN REVEL IN BRIGHT BREAKFAST COATS

Inherent in the hearts of most women is a love for color pure and bright, but civilization has trained them to keep it in strict subjection unless they chance to be young enough to indulge their fancy without criticism. To those denied the license of youth, the gay corduroy breakfast coats which can be enjoyed in home seclusion, are a real joy. The Sherrod Shop on East Broadway has secured an especially pretty stock.

THE TOWN MEETING

has flourished in New England. All the citizens of a town gather in a large hall and pass town ordinances, make appropriations, etc. Voters and non-voters may speak at these meetings.

What do you know about COFFEE?

DO YOU KNOW that Coffee is not always what it appears to be—that it is not necessarily fresh because packed in tin containers, or of an inferior grade when packed in paper bags.

Orange Blossom brand is the highest grade coffee, packed in glassin-lined paper bags, solely to save the consumer the cost of the tin container. It is roasted and ground fresh every day, and only enough is supplied dealers to meet immediate needs — insuring full strength and flavor when the product reaches the consumer. One trial will convince you that there is no better coffee at any price.

To conscientiously advise our customers on the various building problems that may arise.

In addition to the above the use of our complete filing system is available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

Willis C. Thomas, that royal good fellow who was connected with the Los Angeles Express for 14 years and who was Glendale circulation manager for the Press and Express up to August 15, last, is doing well in his new location at Montebello, which bids fair to rival Glendale in phenomenal growth. He and two friends are proprietors of the Montebello News, which, under their management, has already been greatly enlarged and they are fairly overwhelmed with job work. They had to add a new $4800 Linotype to their equipment recently. Willis' many friends in Glendale will rejoice over his prosperity.

A spirited contest has been for years, and is still being, waged over the question of censorship of moving pictures. Producers declare that no indecent pictures are being shown and that the public taste ought to be the guide, anyhow. The opposition declares that obscene pictures are shown frequently and point to newspaper ads and to bill boards in front of theatres showing half dressed female figures, as confirmation. A recent squabble between a very popular young screen star and her managers over her refusal to take the part of a depraved woman, which called for lewd and obscene films, brought out the fact that the star's contract expressly stipulated (and the managers do not deny this) that she was not to appear naked in any scene. Now, why was such a provision necessary if the managers never proposed showing films with unclothed women as actors? Does not that look like some kind of censorship is necessary, either in the film studio or at the theater? Will anyone contend that the appearance of a naked young woman in a film scene which would be seen by thousands of young people, would not be decidedly immoral? The motion picture producers cannot be relied upon to purify themselves as long as young women actresses engaged by them have to protect themselves from shame by stipulating in their contracts that they are not to be required to appear naked before audiences.

A Burbank minister recently declared in an interview that preachers would rather be called "Mr." than "Rev." Each is but a title and the latter is very often wrongly used. It is just as correct to say "the Mr. Jones" as "the Rev. Jones." If you wish to designate Mr. Jones as a minister, speak of him as "Rev. Jones," never as "the Rev. Jones," anymore than you would "the Dr. Jones," or "the Mr. Jones." If you are determined to use "the," write it "the reverend Mr. Jones." In this case the word reverend is an adjective, in the other simply a descriptive title.

There is one man in Glendale who defies the 13 superstition and that is Clifford A. Cole, pastor of the Glendale Christian church. He was married on the 13th, one of his sons was born on that day of the month and the 13th anniversary of his marriage to Miss Bessie Garton was celebrated on Friday, the 13th of June. The first meeting he attended in the old church building when he assumed the Glendale pastorate had 13 in attendance, and at the first service held in the beautiful new building, 13 persons united with the church. Many very successful meetings of church officials and committees have been participated in by 13 people.

—o—

Did you ever stop to think that by the transposition of two lettters "united" becomes "untied." Many couples who are united hastily get untied very quickly.

—o—

A shameless woman sometimes gives a very shameful exhibition of herself.

—o—

Out and in have exactly opposite meanings, yet we say a person comes "out in" the open. Same way with off and on, yet you frequently see in an advertisement that a man gives 25 percent "off on" a certain article. And did you ever notice that when you erect a building you "raise" it and when you tear it down you "raze" it?

—o—

We say there are no privileged classes in America. It is not true. Lawyers belong to a privileged class, as is proven in most every protracted trial. A lawyer can slander a witness, call him names and impugn his motives, yet the judge will not call him down unless he gets too obstreperous. This despicable practice was of frequent occurrence in the recent trial of Clara Phillips. And as evidence that the average lawyer believes he is thus privileged he professes to be very much astonished if a witness whom he has slandered, villified and browbeaten during a trial, resents his action and afterward takes him to task for his scoundrelly tactics. I remember a case back in Illinois nearly 30 years ago when two young ladies, modest and refined, were roughly questioned by an attorney who, in private life always acted as a thorough gentleman, and who was superintendent of the Sunday school they attended and member of the same church with them. In his address to the jury he referred to them slurringly, stating that one of them was too scared to realize what she was saying, and the other was a deliberate liar. Yet he seemed very much astonished when the young ladies afterward refused to speak to him. Either he believed that no one had a right to object to anything he, a privileged character, said to and about a witness, or else that whatever he said in a trial was paid stuff and was not worth the attention of anybody except judge and jury. Such a state of affairs should not be. The judge would be quick to resent any slurring reference to himself and he ought to protect witnesses from such attacks.

—o—

I wonder how many of the readers of this column ever saw and heard little Lizzie Evans as "Chip" in "Fogg's Ferry," something less than half a century ago. Do you remember that sweet, artless, country-bred "Chip" when the artist offered to paint her portrait and asked her what color he should make her dress, replied, after due consideration: "Paint 'er red, Mister." And I guess that when the owners of the brick building on West Broadway, next to the Horseshoe Club's grounds, were asked by the painter what color to lay on that west wall the reply was "Paint 'er red, Mister." And he sure did.

—o—

In no other city is there a finer cooperation among religious bodies and leaders than in Glendale. The ministers meet monthly to discuss matters of interest to the city and other meetings. They join in one body to promote a city-wide evangelistic movement and they support each other in every way possible. Rev. Brink of the Central avenue Methodist church dismissed his services the last two Sunday evenings and took his congreation with him to help out in the Tropico Presbyterian church revival, while he and other ministers of the city have attended several of the meetings in the Christian church. Such a brotherly spirit cannot be too highly commended.

—o—

Glendale ought to have easily raised even $5000 in the Red Cross drive, let alone the insignificant $2000, which was her quota. With a population of 35,000, at least 8000 families are included and probably more than that number. If only one member of each family gave $1, see what a handsome sum would have been realized. And in many families a dollar button was bought for each member. So there must have been thousands of slackers in this great campaign. May this shameful state of affairs never happen again.

J. W. Reagan, county flood control engineer, is under fire, two members of the board of supervisors, one of them our own Henry E. Wright, voting to oust him and the other three fighting to retain him in charge of this important work. His other opponent is J. H. Bean and Mr. Reagan charges that Mr. Bean is riled because his son, who works under Mr. Reagan, was not advanced in salary sufficiently fast. Mr. Reagan has done a mighty work in flood control and has plans for other great and useful projects, which it is hoped he may be permitted to carry out.

Two more suspected burglars were killed recently by Los Angeles policemen who themselves barely escaped a similar fate at the hands of the desperadoes, whom they had captured and were preparing to take to jail. Their search of the suspects for concealed weapons was so carelessly done that a revolver on one of them was overlooked, and this weapon was turned on the officers, but with such poor markmanship that they escaped injury. The officers used sawed-off shotguns on their escaping prisoners, with fatal effect.

Advance Stocks From Good Old Santa Claus

Santa Claus has not yet arrived at Pendroy's store, but it is evident from the windows on the Harvard street frontage he has sent an advance shipment of toys. The display of coasters, balls, blocks, dolls, and toys of all descriptions is so alluring it keeps the faces of the little folk glued to the glass the better to see the treasures within. Inside the store novelties likely to be popular as Christmas gifts are getting "up stage" where they will attract attention. Christmas is certainly coming.

The Glendale Dry Good store has also heard the sleighbells of the kindly saint and is getting ready for his reception. At one side of the entrance is a beautifully displayed stock of attractive handkerchiefs, and not far away is a case of beautiful hair ornaments, fancy combs, clasps, etc. Further back can be found the excellent stock of sweaters and scarfs which this store features and a line of handsome skirts and children's dresses.
